

Dear Parent/Carer

Please see below this week's updates from school.

World Book Day

We have a fantastic response to our World Book Day book swap event. A wide variety of genres and titles have already been donated by our fantastic students and it is not too late to get involved. Students can bring their unwanted books to the library and receive a token for each book. On World Book Day (March 7th, 2024), they can then head to the library armed with tokens and use them to pick up a donated book from the wide array available. Books brought in should be in good condition and suitable for secondary school-age readers. Please ensure that the content is appropriate for a school environment. Fiction, non-fiction, mystery, fantasy – all genres are welcome.

We will also be celebrating World Book Day with assemblies and whole school events. In addition we have invited Nathan Parker who is an independent author and spoken artist from Blackpool to come in and do some workshops with some of our students.

If you want any more information about World Book Day and any activities you can do at home please click the following link which will take you to the official WBD website. <https://www.worldbookday.com/>
